

SMALL PERCENT. OF VOTERS REGISTER

Only 749 Registration Blanks Had Been Filled Out in The City at 2 o'clock.

FARMERS OBJECT TO LAW.

Reports From Outside Precincts of The County Indicate Light Registration.

The first opportunity to register for the November election is being given today. From the number of voters who have registered it seems that the new law is not exceedingly popular with them and that many of the voters are putting the registration off as long as they can.

The boards were all open this morning at six o'clock and will remain open until this evening. The reports throughout the county indicate that with few exceptions the registration has been light. This afternoon about two o'clock the number who had registered at the various precincts were as follows:

Precinct No. 1.....	92
Precinct No. 2.....	55
Precinct No. 3.....	44
Precinct No. 4.....	83
Precinct No. 5.....	64
Precinct No. 6.....	58
Precinct No. 7.....	64
Precinct No. 8.....	85
Precinct No. 9.....	111
Precinct No. 10.....	93

This number will be increased some before the polls close but from present indications only a small per cent. of the total vote will be recorded at the registration boards. A number of farmers were in the city today and they were filing their protest against the new law. One prominent farmer of Salt Creek Township said that he lived about seven miles from the place where he could register and that it would cause him a good deal of inconvenience. He said that he had lived on the same farm for twenty years and believed that the registration law for rural districts was not necessary. He also pointed to the large expense necessary to conduct the sessions and stated that the people in his community were bitterly opposed to the new law. This is just one illustration of what the farmers think of the new law.

LEG AMPUTATED

Sherman Peek Undergoes Operation at City Hospital.

Sherman Peek underwent an operation at the City Hospital today, his left leg being amputated near the knee. About a year ago his leg was badly fractured in a runaway accident at North Vernon and has given him considerable trouble since. He was admitted to the hospital Wednesday, and the physicians thought it advisable to amputate the limb.

Is Not Being Contemplated by the B. & O. S-W. Company.

The rumors which have been afloat here for several days that the B. & O. The reports were started about the time several of the B. & O. S-W. officials accompanied the officers of the C. T. H. & S-E. on an inspection trip of the latter system. This trip it is stated was entirely a social affair and the B. & O. officers made the trip upon invitation of the officials of the C. T. H. & S-E.

OWNERS OF BOTTOM LAND WANT LEVEE

Farmers of Carr Township File Petition Asking Construction of Embankment Nine Miles Long.

WOULD PROTECT 5,000 ACRES.

Proposed Levee Will Be the Largest in Southern Indiana—Farmers Much Interested.

A petition has been filed in the circuit court by a number of farmers of Carr township who own land in the river bottoms, asking for the construction of a levee for protection against the overflow of White River. There are about five thousand acres of rich, fertile soil over which the river frequently flows, and with the protection of the levee, such as is planned, the crops would be more assured and the land increased in value. Under the statute of this state, such an embankment can be built by proceedings similar to those for the construction of ditches and drains. The petitioners are of the opinion that the levee can be built high enough and sufficiently strong to keep the water off the land. It is understood that a special engineer will make the preliminary survey and give the estimate cost of the work.

The proposed levee, if completed, will be one of the longest embankments in southern Indiana. It is estimated that it will be over nine miles long. The project will mean much to the people of Medora as it will reclaim a large part of the land in that section of the county.

The farmers in the Medora bottoms have had their crops destroyed to the extent of thousands of dollars almost every year. The farmers in that community are much interested in the undertaking and are hopeful that it will be successful. A large number of drains and ditches have been constructed in Jackson county during the past few years, but these will not take the place of the levee or embankment which is proposed. Drainage is valuable but it has been found that embankment and drains can be combined with the best results. The matter will be watched with much interest as it is the largest project of this character ever attempted in the county. The petitioners are represented in the circuit court by Koehenour & Price, attorneys of Brownstown.

RALPH BOSWELL IS WOUNDED BY SHOT

Is Superintendent of Ft. Worth Terminal and is Fired Upon By An Ex-switchman.

SON-IN-LAW OF JOHN MACK.

Boswell Undergoes Operation and Has Even Chance For Recovery.

John Mack received a telegram this morning that his son-in-law, Ralph Boswell, superintendent of the City Terminal Railroad of Fort Worth, Texas, was shot Wednesday evening by an ex-switchman. The message stated that Mr. Boswell underwent an operation shortly after he was shot and that his physicians believe his chances for recovery are about even. The bullet entered his abdomen.

The telegram did not state the cause of the shooting, but it is believed here that the man had been released from the service of the company and shot Superintendent Boswell for revenge.

Mr. Boswell was formerly superintendent of the A. G. & C. railroad with headquarters at Birmingham, Ala., but later became superintendent of the Sea Board Air Line and moved to Jacksonville, Florida. Some time ago he accepted his present position. He visited in Seymour last December and has a number of acquaintances and friends here.

Judge O. H. Montgomery Will Represent State in Burrell Cases.

Judge Joseph H. Shea has appointed Judge O. H. Montgomery to act as special prosecutor in the Hugh Burrell cases which will be tried tomorrow. It is alleged that Burrell forged the names of several people living in the west part of county, and the first case to be tried upon this charge will be that in which he is said to have signed the names of John F. Stuckwisch and George Snyder to a note without the consent or knowledge of these men. The other cases are similar in character and will be called later. A special venire has been summoned for the case tomorrow.

SUPERINTENDENT PEYTON

May Be Removed as Head of Indiana Reformatory.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—That a desperate fight to remove Superintendent D. C. Peyton, of the Indiana Reformatory, will be made at the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the institution, which opens with a session today, has become known.

Information, which members of the institution's board, Governor Marshall, members of the Visiting Committee of the State Board of Charities and Superintendent Peyton have sought to keep from the public, has been obtained, verifying rumors that the Reformatory might be disrupted because of a situation, which reached its climax last Sunday when Leon Leaf, assistant superintendent of the institution, handed in his resignation to Superintendent Peyton.

Following a visit of the Visiting Committee of the Board of State Charities to the Reformatory some time ago, a meeting of the committee was held in Governor Marshall's office, at which Major Peyton attended. None of those at the meeting would discuss its character following the gathering other than to declare that the subjects discussed were merely routine.

Governor Marshall refused to give out anything for publication other than to say that the subjects discussed were foreign to anything connected officially with his office.

That charges were placed against Assistant Superintendent Leaf of such a character that the Visiting Board was compelled to take action in the matter is admitted by members of the Board of State Charities. All of the principals in the controversy declare that there was no political reason for the "ousting" of Leaf, though he was a Republican and Major Peyton is a Democrat.

WHEAT CONDITIONS.

Report Shows Prospects Are Not Encouraging.

The May crop report of the department of agriculture disclosed a decidedly unfavorable condition. Winter wheat, owing to the rigorous winter, will produce an estimate crop of about sixty million bushels less than that of last year. More than one-fifth of the area planted last fall was abandoned owing to the severe winter, leaving an average almost 12 per cent. less than that harvested last year. The average condition of winter wheat May 1 was 5.5 per cent. below the ten-year average condition at that date. Spring planting was less than half done, or 48.9 per cent. compared with 67.6 per cent. for the previous ten years. Pastures and meadow lands also were below the ten-year average, but slightly above last year's May 1st conditions. The short crop of hay last year left only about one-half the usual amount of hay on farms on May 1.

The report follows: Winter wheat condition, 79.7; area remaining, 25,744,000 acres, or 3,418,000 acres less than in 1911, and 6,469,000 acres less than sown last fall. Indicated yield 14.4 bushels an acre. Estimated crop, 370,714,000 bushels. Rye, condition 87.5. Meadow lands, condition 85.7. Hay on farms, 3,888,000 tons. Pasture, conditions 81.7. Spring plowing 52.8 per cent. completed. Spring planting 48.9 per cent. completed.

PRESIDENT PLANS FIGHT NEXT WEEK

Taft Will Make One Hundred Speeches and Travel One Thousand Miles in Ohio.

WILL SHOW FIGHTING BLOOD

Preparations for the Hardest Fight of the Campaign Are Being Made.

Columbus, O. May 9.—That President Taft can win in Ohio is the firm conviction of his friends and the President is preparing to make the strongest political fight of his life. He will make between ninety and a hundred speeches next week, and will travel about one thousand miles within the borders of Ohio to make them. The President will enter the state at Marietta Monday morning and speak in practically every town or more than five thousand inhabitants that he did not visit yesterday.

Mr. Taft, in his speeches next week, will not descend to what he called in his speech at Lancaster, O., yesterday Mr. Roosevelt's "proneness to impute improper motives to other people," but he will give facts and produce evidence to show that he has plenty of good red fighting blood in his veins.

When he left this city last night for Washington to prepare for his long campaign in Ohio before the primaries are held, the President was well pleased, and so were his friends, with the day's work that began in Cincinnati and ended with a magnificent meeting in this city.

Although he was in Ohio on a political mission pure and simple, his old-time neighbors accorded him a splendid welcome, and nowhere was that welcome more generous than at Portsmouth and Irontown, two communities that the Roosevelt managers declare they have "sewed up tighter than a hat band."

In referring to the third term candidate, the President did not put on the soft pedal. He spoke plain English and every sentence was easily understood.

GENERAL CONFERENCE PASSES RESOLUTIONS

Catholics and Tobacco Users Severely Condemned.

Minneapolis, May 9.—By adopting resolutions protesting against the action of the ecumenical missionary conference in Edinburgh recently, which set aside all Protestant mission work in Greek and Roman Catholic countries and which caused strenuous discussion at that time, Methodist Episcopalians in general conference scored Roman Catholic missionary methods. The resolution declares that "the Methodist Episcopal church recognizes its plain duty to prosecute its missionary enterprises in Greek and Roman Catholic countries with increasing zeal, and that it is its duty to oppose the machinations of Romanism and counteract its attempt to gain an ever increasing control of our public schools to use the public funds for sectarian schools."

The resolutions also declared that the teachings and practices of the Catholic church "deprive the people of the Bible, pervert many of the fundamental doctrines of Christianity and foster superstitions which alienate the thinking classes and bind heavy burdens on the poor."

A resolution was also adopted which prohibits the election of any officer of the general conference, which includes secretaries of boards and editors of church papers, who uses tobacco in any form.

There will not be a final court of appeals from the Methodist church.

What the Red Cross Is Doing For the Titanic Sufferers.

New York, May 9.—With a fund nearing $120,000 back of it, the Red Cross emergency relief committee is still working at high speed to relieve the financial distress caused by the Titanic disaster.

In round figures, $18,530 has been distributed outright to survivors who lost their all; $35,000 has been set aside as a fund temporarily for the support of families who lost the bread winner; about fifteen bodies brought from Halifax have been buried, and in all about 350 applications have been taken under investigation. Every mail brings more applications.

GOMEZ'S NEW OFFICE MAY NOT LAST LONG

Provisional Presidency Has a Shaky Support.

El Paso, May 8.—A message has come from Pascual Orozco, generalissimo of the rebels, declaring that he declines to recognize Vasquez Gomez as provisional president or the establishment of a provisional government, notwithstanding Orozco's father is secretary of war in the cabinet of the provisional president and Vasquez Gomez in his proclamation of acceptance declared he had assumed the duties and responsibilities of office upon the request of Orozco.

In Too Great a Hurry.

Orozco, jr., does not deny having sent for Vasquez Gomez to come to Chihuahua, but says:

"I would have received him gladly if he had come into our territory to consult with my men and myself, but I disapprove of the establishment of a provisional government until the revolution triumphs."

News has come that Orozco has advanced as far as Escalon. So far as known the rebel army has not advanced further than Peronal, which is forty-two miles north of Torreon. As Mexico City dispatches report that the federals began advancing from Torreon Monday, a battle is expected at any time.

Refused to Attend Inspection.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., May 9.—Walter C. Coghill and Samuel Axton, members of Company L, Indiana national guard, of this city, were arrested in New Harmony by the city marshal of that place on warrants issued by Captain A. J. Miller. Both men refused to attend regular army inspection on April 15, after being properly notified. They were brought to this city and placed in jail and their trial will be held Friday before the officers of the company.

AMERICANS NOT IN SERIOUS STRAITS

Reports From Mexico Found to Be Exaggerated.

Washington, May 8.—According to dispatches received at the war department from Captain Frank D. Ely of the army transport Buford, sent to the Mexican coast to rescue any Americans or other foreigners, reports of Americans in distress on the west coast of Mexico have been much exaggerated.

Captain Ely arrived at Los Mochas from Mazatlan, and found less than a dozen Americans waiting to board the Buford. It had been reported that a refugee colony of more than 500 was awaiting aid from the United States. Captain Ely said all seemed quiet, and he intends returning to Mazatlan with those desiring to leave Los Mochas, and at Mazatlan he expects to take on about sixty-five persons who wish to leave Mexico.

PLUCKY BALOONIST

Invited the Turks to Fire Upon Him as an Experiment.

London, May 8.—A dispatch from the Turkish headquarters at Pirziza says the other day the Marquis Piraino dropped from a dirigible balloon a note addressed to the Turkish artillery commandant asking if he would, merely in the interests of the science of aerial warfare, try the effect of artillery fire against a balloon. The marquis returned with his balloon the next day and the Turks fired. They apparently hit the balloon, but did not disable it.

UNREST GROWING IN ANTHRACITE FIELDS

Miners Say Operators Are Fo- menting Trouble.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 9.—The miners of this section are led to believe by the suddenness with which riots have started in all parts of the anthracite field that there are forces at work stirring up the lawless element. The charge is made by the men of this section that the operators have started the trouble and that strife is being caused purposely in order to win public sympathy and to bring about such deplorable conditions that it will be necessary to call out the state militia to preserve order.

Miners declare that the operators are shipping guards into all parts of the field and that agents of the companies are going among the lawless element and stirring them up, which, they say, is accountable for the many riots in the lower districts and the attack on the state police. Many of the men believe that the companies are aiming to show that the state constabulary is unable to properly police the anthracite field, partly because of the hatred the men bear this organization and because of the few men. With the militia in charge of conditions, the miners say the companies would have the protection they need to open their collieries and also have the additional help of the state police.

DEATH SENTENCE

Will Follow Conviction of Young Writer on Murder Charge.

New Haven, Conn., May 9.—George Redding, jr., aged twenty-three years, one of the well known young men about town, who gained some notice in the past few years by writing short stories and by appearing in one or two vaudeville sketches of his own creation, has been convicted of murder in the first degree by a jury in the superior court. He shot down a young Hebrew fruit dealer, Morris Greenberg of this city, whom he had inveigled into the woods north of this city on Feb. 24, on the pretext that he would sell him apples at a bargain. Robbery was said to be the motive for the crime.

SHREWD WORK OF AN AMERICAN DETECTIVE

He Was Right On the Spot at Critical Juncture.

Rome, May 9.—The arrest is reported here of P. W. Pitt of Baltimore, the head of the grain firm of Pitt Bros. & Co., of that city, who disappeared last fall. Pitt disappeared after the suspension of the firm, which had failed for about $290,000. The grand jury at Baltimore brought in a presentment charging Pitt with having secured thousands of dollars by manipulating bills of lading.

The arrest of Pitt was due to the shrewd work of an American detective, who tracked him to Athens. He embarked on the steamer Niger bound for Constantinople, but could not land at the capital because of the closing of the Dardanelles. Pitt, who did not suspect that he was being shadowed, removed a false beard which he had been wearing, whereupon the detective, who recognized him, sent a wireless dispatch from the ship to the American consul at Naples. The latter met the Niger when she returned. He was accompanied by the French consul in order to avoid international complications. This action also made possible his arrest aboard the steamship.

After Pitt fled from the United States he went to Spain and thence to Egypt and Greece. He was confident that he would not be discovered. Extrajudicial proceedings have already begun.

Lifeboats Not Trustworthy.

CONGRESS HAS THE EVIDENCE

Case Against Judge Archbald Now Developing.

WORK OF SECRET SERVICE MEN

These Latter Spent Weeks in the Scranton Neighborhood Going Over the Stories of the Connection of the Head of Commerce Court With Culm Pile Deals, and Their Report is Now Before Congress.

Scranton, Pa., May 9.—For the first time the nature of the testimony of the witnesses to be heard in the congressional hearing now under way on the charges against Commerce Court Judge Archbald was made known here by representatives of the interests allied to the prosecution. With the announcement of the testimony there were announced also the specific allegations on which the charges against Judge Archbald rest.

The result of the investigation of the secret service men, who spent weeks in this city looking into the Archbald stories, is now before congress. The papers in the case, it is said here, pertain to the alleged activities of Judge Archbald in the buying of culm dumps from railroad companies, the re-selling of them at big profits, a reported activity of the commerce judge in trying to engineer the sale of a coal company, which was on trial in the United States court in an assumption proceeding to the Lackawanna Railroad company, which was in turn being prosecuted by the company before the interstate commerce commission; a transaction in which it is alleged a note of Judge Archbald's for $500 was offered for discount to the defendant in a suit on trial in that court; a letter purporting to have been written by an official high in the service of the Lackawanna company, in which the result of a suit in the district court here, and in which W. P. Boland, the independent coal operator behind the charges against Judge Archbald, was the defendant, was forecasted, it is claimed.

E. J. Williams of this city, an old mining man and for years a speculator in culm piles, who is now in Washington, having been subpoenaed by the house judiciary committee on the eve of his intended departure for Wales will be called upon to explain the reported activities of Judge Archbald in culm pile deals. It was Williams who with Judge Archbald secured an option on the Katy Did dump of the Erie road, several months ago, at a price of a total of $8,000 for the Erie interest and an outside interest and which was later offered for sale to the Lackawanna & Wyoming Valley Railroad company, an electric line, for $35,000.

Williams has talked freely of the deal for the Katy Did dump, but has kept quiet on another coal deal, in which Judge Archbald is said to have been interested. This deal, it is said here, involves the Lackawanna railroad in the case, and Williams was a prime mover in it. It was Williams also who is said to have offered to Boland a note for $500 by Judge Archbald, which Boland refused to discount on the ground that he then had a case in Judge Archbald's court.

Williams's story of the Katy Did deal will be, he said before leaving for Washington, that acting with Judge Archbald, he secured the dump for $8,000 and was about to sell it to the electric line for $35,000, when a flaw in the title stopped the sale. Williams says that the Katy Did dump contains more than 100,000 tons of burnable fuel, worth easily 30 cents a ton and that the dump at $35,000 would be a bargain for the electric railroad.

ENORMOUS LOSS

Estimates Place Damage in Mississippi Valley at $100,000,000.

Washington, May 9.—Another break in the main levee along the Mississippi has been reported to the war department. Dispatches received stated that the region about Angola for many miles was being flooded as the result of a break in the west bank. This latest break is near the great Torras crevasse.

A general exodus from the New Orleans district is reported by army officials. The people are panic-stricken at sight of the steadily rising river. Thus far most of the levees are holding, but they are in a highly critical condition.

Conditions at Memphis and Vicksburg are reported as without change. All the people and livestock have been removed from the vicinity of Lettsworth and Morganza. Rescue parties sent out from Vicksburg by Major Normoyle are now working near New Roads, where hundreds are reported in great distress. Motor boats have been sent to New Roads to rescue the inhabitants.

Estimates place the probable damage at not less than $50,000,000 in the Mississippi valley. Less conservative estimates than those of army engineers place the total at $100,000,000.

A QUESTION OF RESPONSIBILITY

Who Was It Ordered Trust Papers Destroyed?

IMPORTANT BIT OF TESTIMONY

Witness Narrates Interesting Story Before Examiner Brown in the Steel Trust Case, Setting Out How He Had Burned Documents Government Depended on and How His Superiors Sought to Shift the Responsibility.

New York, May 9.—Jacob M. Dickinson, special assistant attorney general in the steel trust hearing before Examiner Henry P. Brown in the custom house, succeeded in drawing from Harry A. Whitney the story of the destruction of hundreds of documents bearing upon the connection of the American Steel and Wire company with the wire rope pool. From the same witness evidence was also elicited in connection with the influence which is said to have been brought to bear on him at the time of the recent grand jury investigation by Frank Baackes, vice president and general manager of the American Steel and Wire company, and George A. Craigen, assistant general sales agent.

The papers in question were the basis of the injunction by which the government attempted to restrain the steel corporation from destroying any more evidence in connection with the wire pool indictments. Among them were letters said to reveal the connection of the United States Steel Products company with the wire pool and its participation in the fixing of prices. They had been returned by the United States district attorney to the American Steel and Wire company with the understanding, the government contends, that they were to be preserved.

Under questioning from Mr. Dickinson, Mr. Whitney related how early in November or late in October, he had, acting under instructions from Vice President Baackes, superintended the destruction of the documents which were burned beneath the boilers of the North works of the American Steel and Wire company at Worcester, Mass.

The most sensational part of the witnesses's testimony came when he was asked about a conversation he had with Mr. Baackes and Mr. Craigen, who had approached him in the corridor outside of the witness room during the session of the federal grand jury. From this point up to the time when he was let off, Mr. Whitney labored under great agitation.

"I went out," said Mr. Whitney, "and Mr. Baackes, who had sent for me, asked if I remembered about the instructions to destroy the papers. I told him that I recalled his orders to burn them. To this he replied 'I told you no such thing.'"

"Mr. Craigen, my immediate superior, came to me later in the witness room and asked if I was sure that Mr. Baackes had given me those instructions. When I answered in the affirmative, he grew excited and emphatically declared that he and not Mr. Baackes had issued the orders." Before he left the stand, Mr. Whitney reiterated his assertion that the papers were made away with on Mr. Baackes's orders.

CONVENTION OF THE SOCIALISTS

Indianapolis Meeting Will Last Two Weeks.

ALL THE STATES REPRESENTED

Pennsylvania Will Send the Largest Delegation to the National Convention of the Socialist Party, Which Will Assemble at Indianapolis on Sunday.—A Half Dozen Names Mentioned For Presidential Nomination.

Indianapolis, May 9.—Three hundred and fifty delegates and 1,200 to 1,300 visitors are expected by local Socialists to attend the national convention of the Socialist party, which will open in Tomlinson hall next Sunday and continue for at least two weeks. The delegates will come from every state in the Union. Pennsylvania will have the largest number of any state, but California and Illinois also will have good sized delegations. Indiana will have nine delegates in the convention. It is believed that by Saturday night practically all the delegates will be here. National headquarters will be at the Hotel English.

The convention will nominate a presidential ticket, and those mentioned in connection with this nomination are: Emil Seidel, Milwaukee; Job Harri-mann, Los Angeles; Eugene V. Debs, Terre Haute; Max S. Hayes, Cleveland; Duncan McDonald, Springfield, Ill., and Charles Edward Russell, author. There is some talk of the convention referring the matter of presidential nomination to a referendum vote of the members of the party throughout the country, but this is not believed by local Socialists to be likely.

The national executive committee of the party, consisting of about forty members, will hold meetings Friday and Saturday and complete the plans for the convention. The executive committee will map out the program to be followed and will arrange all of the details for the meeting.

THE HARRIS CASE

Probably Will Be Called For Trial This Month.

Rushville, Ind., May 9.—Paul Harris probably will be tried for the murder of his mother the last week of this term of court, which begins May 20. According to the coroner and the prosecutor the motive for the crime was the desire of young Harris to gain possession of his mother's property. Timothy White, the father of Mrs. Minnie Harris, never forgave L. B. Harris for eloping with his daughter, and when he made his will he placed Mrs. Harris's share of his large estate in trust to descend to her blood heirs only, so her husband could come into no part of it. The will provides that in case Mrs. Harris died without blood heirs the property should revert to his other two children or their heirs. Paul Harris is her son, and he is the legal heir to the property.

Paul Harris has also been prominent here socially. He lived in Rushville until he was sixteen years old, and has a large number of friends who refuse to believe he killed his mother. Ashland farm, where Mrs. Harris's body was burned, was a popular place for house parties a few years ago. Mrs. Harris pampered her son and frequently gave week-end parties at the beautiful country home for her son's friends.

Paul Harris was married a year ago last August to Miss Regina Mettel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mettel of Connersville, and moved to a farm six miles east of here. They have one child five months old.

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1912.

Voters are today getting their first taste of a new variety of democratic legislation, and it is not altogether pleasing. Throughout the county it is reported that the registration law is being bitterly condemned and the voters are declaring it a useless and expensive routine. Many men who have lived in the county all their lives are compelled to drive five or six miles in order to fill out the required blank which entitles them to cast the vote they are entitled to in the fall. The new law will cost this county hundreds of dollars and when the benefits are invoiced it will be found that the cost is large. The law as it affects rural communities will likely meet with some radical changes at the next legislature.

More strife at the Indiana Reformatory at Jeffersonville is threatened and it may culminate with the removal of the superintendent. Such reports regarding official difficulties at the Reformatory are getting to be quite common, and incidentally, it is not the best recommendation that can be given. The whole trouble lies in making the official appointments a political reward rather than selecting men for the positions with the view of ability and qualifications. A state institution should be taken out of politics, but the Governor seems to have overlooked this important fact.

When a public official, and especially one whose duty it is to assist in enforcing the law, shows such a lack of appreciation and utter disregard for the office with which the people have honored him—not to mention his own self-respect—as to become publicly intoxicated, he should not wait for impeachment proceedings, but should either begin a better life at once or have the manhood to resign the office with which he has been entrusted.—Brownstown Banner.

PRIMARY VOTE LIGHT

Conceded That Outcome of Judicial Race Will Be Close.

Democratic politicians, candidates and some office holders are busy men today, rounding up the democratic vote in the judicial primary. In spite of their hard work, however, it is believed a light vote will be cast not only in Seymour but in the other precincts in the county. The rain of yesterday assisted some in bringing out the country vote as the ground is too wet to work and the farmers who live near the voting places took time to cast their vote. Many of the farmers, however, as well as the men living in the city take little interest in a primary and the voting is usually light. The candidates in the judicial race expected a lighter vote than that cast in the last primary, but are somewhat surprised that the vote is so small.

About two o'clock this afternoon only 418 votes were cast in the two precincts in Seymour, 223 being in the south precinct and 195 in the north. As usual there will probably be a rush just before the polls close and this number will be increased before evening.

At Brownstown a light vote is also reported, 171 votes were cast in the west precinct at 2:30 o'clock. Indications are that a fairly heavy vote will be cast at Dudleytown as many of the voters in that community have driven to the polls. The precincts in the west part of the county will poll a light vote according to the messages which were received this afternoon.

It is thought that the result of the primary in the rural precincts will be known about nine o'clock this evening.

ning although the final count will not be completed until half past ten or eleven o'clock.

It is impossible at this time to make a prediction on the outcome of the primary although it is thought the result will be very close. The friends of both Mr. Barnes and Mr. Swails are claiming the victory. The outcome of the primary is being watched with interest.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Home Department Class.

The regular meeting of the Home Department class of the First Baptist Sunday School, led by Mrs. Jos. Harsh, was held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. U. G. Palmer. Eighteen were present. A song by four boys was greatly enjoyed and they received a hearty encore. The class decided to hold a picnic next month in the city park on Wednesday, June 19, at which several interesting features will make up the program.

Entertained.

Mrs. G. V. Sawyer was hostess to the members of Mrs. W. A. Carter's Sunday School class yesterday afternoon at her home on St. Louis avenue. Arrangements were made for the closing exercises of the Baptist Sunday School next Sunday when Mother's Day will be observed. Refreshments were served.

FIRST AID

B. & O. Gives Employees Instructions How to Assist Injured.

Cooperating with the American National Red Cross in furthering its campaign of safety, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has completed a two weeks' course of instruction in first aid to the injured. The "first aid" car of the Red Cross, in charge of Dr. M. J. Shields, field representative of society, conducted meetings which were well attended by railroad men in train service, shop mechanics and other employees who are liable to injury in the work.

A railroad man was placed on the temporary operating table and bandaged by his fellow employees in the most effectual manner to afford emergency relief until the arrival of a surgeon. Instruction was given in making stretchers out of jackets worn by workmen, the jackets being suspended between crowbars, piping and other material. It also was shown how to cope with an injury from electrical shock, breaking the contact with the wire and rendering temporary aid to the victim. The railroad men also were shown how to properly carry an injured person when there is no material available from which to make a stretcher.

The instructions will be given to the employees of the various divisions of the company.

Baptist Chorus Choir.

"Mother's Day" will be observed Sunday night and special music for the occasion will be rehearsed at the regular rehearsal Friday night at the church at 7:30 o'clock. The chorister is anxious that every member be present and on time.

BROWNSTOWN BUSINESS MEN

PLAN FREE ENTERTAINMENT

Arrangements Made to Give Public Moving Picture Shows Upon the Streets on Saturday.

"The West End" business men of Brownstown have inaugurated a novel plan of public entertainment by giving free moving picture shows on the streets. It is planned to show several films each Saturday evening, and it is believed that a large number of citizens will be attracted by the entertainment. The shows are given under the direction of the Brownstown Free Amusement Company.

The pictures will be shown in front of George Coffey's store and the machine will be placed near Brock's drug store. The first show will be given next Saturday. The moving pictures have become very popular and the merchants of Brownstown are among the first in this part of the state to use them for a free entertainment and as a public advertisement.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache.

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

THE QUIET HOUR

Do Missions Pay?

The Question Answered

DO missions pay? The cost, not only in money, but in sacrifice and often in suffering, is so great, the returns sometimes seem so small, that the question is often seriously asked. It may be that this striking incident, which comes to the Companion from one who knows its truth, will help to reassure some of the doubters.

An old gentleman, living in a quiet eastern village, had a visit—the first in many years—from his son, a prosperous storekeeper in western Canada. On Sunday father and son went to church, where they listened to a sermon on Christian missions. Throughout the service the old gentleman was restless.

"I'm sorry," he said, as they left the church, "that I brought you here today."

"Why, father?" asked the younger man.

"I'm sorry," he replied, with a shrug of his shoulders, "that you had to listen to that sermon. I don't believe in missions. They're a stupid waste of men and money."

The younger man made no reply at the time, but when he reached home he asked his father and mother to let him tell them a little story.

Object Lesson Shown.
"A few years ago," he began, "a young man left his father's farm to seek his fortune in the Canadian west. He got into bad company, and was left one day by the roadside drunk and unconscious."

"At that place, living in a little sod-covered shack, there was a young man who had been sent out by a missionary society. He was brave. He loved men and sought them in the spirit of his divine master. He found the drunken fellow, who had been left by his companions to die from alcohol or exposure, and carried him to his shack, placed him in his own bed, and worked over him until he brought him back to consciousness. Then after he had fed him, he remonstrated with him for wasting his life, and prayed earnestly with him."

Beginning of New Life.
"The young man confessed his sins and sought pardon. His after life proved the genuineness of his conversion. He has become an honored and respected citizen, and as the world goes, a prosperous man. He is an officer in his church, and in order to add to the comfort of his aged parents, he sends them gladly five hundred dollars a year."

"Father and mother, I am that man, and I tremble to think what I should have been but for that faithful missionary."

This is but a single episode in the life of one of the devoted men and women laboring in the field of missions; yet how much it meant—in happiness and comfort for the old people. In the value to the community of the alert, efficient, honorable citizen, who might otherwise have died a drunkard; above all, in a joyful life of service, and the assurance of life eternal to the man who was saved.—Youth's Companion.

TRUE CHURCH EASILY KNOWN

That Organization Which Is Doing the Work of Christ Has the Only Claim.

Which is the true church? Jesus said many times, "The Son of man is come to save that which is lost." He sent the seventy out to seek and to save. He gave them a gospel of deliverance from bondage, a message that should free men from their sins and restore them to their birthright as the children of God. He came as a fisher who gathers fish into his net. He called those whom he chose to found his church as fishers of men. This was the great task of the first members. The church was known in Greece and Rome not because of any claims it made, but because it saved men to the new life and way. It makes no difference what claims a church may make today. The world is no longer interested in such things. It watches the churches, and when it finds a church which is saving men from their sins it cares little whether its form be ancient or modern, its baptism immersion or sprinkling, its creed long or short, its theology conservative or liberal. It knows and feels instinctively that this is the true church, the church which Christ founded, the church where Christ now dwells.—The Congregationalist.

God's House, the Bible.

The Bible is God's house. Here in this book is where saints have lived. Here is where holy men have persevered. Here is where men in great distress have learned how valiantly to endure and to achieve. This book is filled full of dear associations. Here are passages that I walked through when my first-born died. Here is where I found comfort when I was in great distress and torment. Here is where I first saw the Star of Bethlehem.

Many a poor fellow would do better if he had more encouragement.

TRACING TREE DISEASES.

While physicians and bacteriologists are at work trying to find the causes of and cure the diseases which afflict humanity, scientists of another line of endeavor are engaged in a work of conservation which is of vital importance to society. At the department of agriculture an investigation is in progress into the disease affecting the southern pine, the hickory and the chestnut. For some years trees of these varieties have been dying at a most costly rate. The enemies of the southern pine and the hickory are identified and some progress has been made in their attack. The chestnut disease, however, has thus far eluded the investigators. Great forests of these trees have been blighted and the organism, whatever its nature, has not yet been isolated. There are several theories to account for the blight, one being that it is carried by birds; another that it is borne by the dust. Whatever its nature, it has cost the tree owners of the eastern states an immense sum of money already, and if it is not soon checked it will practically exterminate the chestnut. In such researches and endeavors the department of agriculture amply justifies the annual expenditures incurred in its upkeep, says the Washington Star. It has already contributed many times its cost to the wealth of the country, and fortunately there is no disposition on the part of congress to apply the pruning knife to the bills for its maintenance.

Vienna can boast a curious eccentric, who turns life upside down, a rich young Pole, who lives in sumptuous style, but always summons his servants by bugle call. His favorite pastime is driving an omnibus, attired like an ordinary busman, and though he is said to spend a fortune each year in clothes, he wears no garment until it has been worn by his valet. He has astonished the guests at a ball by appearing in a costume of pure white, save for the shirt and tie, which were black. To complete his oddities, when dining, which he invariably does alone at a table d'hôte, he reverses the usual order, beginning his meal with the sweets and ending with the soup.

Eye-strain and headaches resulting therefrom are frequently attributed to the ordeal to which the eyes are subjected in visiting motion picture shows. The dancing effect of screen pictures in motion is not so noticeable now as it was in the early days of the cinematograph, and this is a great improvement. But still there is much eye-strain. A recent writer attributes it to scratches and dirt on the films. Improvement has followed improvement so rapidly in the development of the moving picture that no doubt need be entertained regarding the early solution of the problem of reducing the danger of eye-strain, so far at least as that object can be effected by keeping the films clear or scratches and dirt.

A Parisian expert on Mars asserts that the Martians have more lung power than the people of the earth and that the temperature averages 33 degrees less than ours. The first peculiarity seems to equip them for political campaigns and makes possible the development of caloric that would overcome the drawback of the second for that purpose.

A. Maurice Low in a lecture at Yale said that newspaper reporters are "men of trivial minds without perspective and without education." We infer that Mr. Low is not exactly pleased with the reports of his speeches that have appeared in the newspapers.

The hen has entered the industrial ring and smashed the egg trust to smithereens. Now the great American eagle is hiding his head in shame as the greater American hen cackles defiance at him as the national bird.

A Chicago judge has decided that if a man is compelled to do housework, he is justified in getting drunk. Masculinity is hanging on with apprehensive tenacity to the few special privileges yet remaining to its clutch.

Because he was defeated in battle the other day a Mexican general committed suicide. They seem to take their battles seriously down there, no matter how they may be regarded from the outside.

A Missouri woman who sued for the alienation of her husband's affections has been awarded damages in the sum of two dollars. We assume that the man in the case is a two-spot.

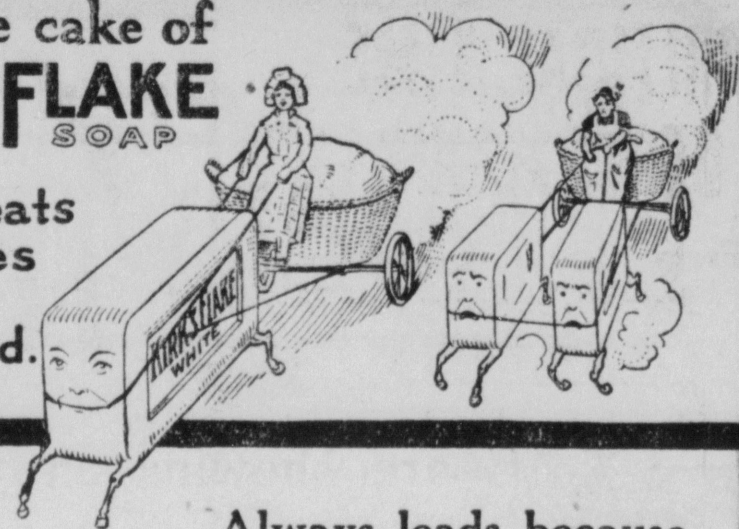

Georgia has a Cobb county which was not named after the famous Tyrus, but it would have been if Tyrus had been playing at that time.

YOUR MOTHER-IN-LAW.

The mother-in-law joke is silly. Mother-in-law criticism is unmanly, and mother-in-law hatred is dangerous.

No chivalric man should permit himself to feel or act other than as a gentleman—if not a son—toward the mother of the woman whom he has made his wife.

What if you cannot precisely see all things from your mother-in-law's point of view or that you sometimes feel she may be indiscreet?

Never mind. Be kind just the same to the woman who bore in pain the wife you love. Be generous and courteous.

If your mother-in-law has little weaknesses your wife knows them better than you. And if you are manly and large hearted and ignore these defects the woman you have married will feel that you are big and fine, and in her heart she will worship you.

You are in debt to your wife's mother.

If your wife is helpful and sympathetic, if she is a good mother and a good housekeeper, she got those qualities and that training from her mother. What she is to you her mother has made her.

If you do not respect your wife's mother it may be doubted whether you love your wife.

Certain it is that if you continually criticize her mother in the presence of your wife the first thing you know you will lose the love and respect of your wife.

And you ought to lose it.

The shafts of censure or of sarcasm you level at her mother go straight through the heart of the daughter. She may not resent it openly, but she keenly feels that a slight offered the mother is a fling at the daughter.

Moreover—If you are too tactful for open criticism, yet at heart are jealous of your wife's family, you cannot entirely hide the feeling, and your wife will think less of you.

What sort of woman would your wife be if when she married you she should turn her back on her family?

Could you trust her?

Are not the qualities in your wife which bind her to her mother the qualities that bind her loyalty to you?

This is plain speaking.

Is it not true?

Fifty Years Ago Today. May 9.

The Confederates evacuated Norfolk, Va., without attempting to defend it. In military parlance McClellan's advance up the peninsula from Yorktown toward Richmond "turned" Norfolk and rendered it untenable to Confederates. General Butler distributed captured Confederate supplies at New Orleans to the poor of that city. General David Hunter, commander of the south, proclaimed freedom for all slaves in South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age.
How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.:—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

"Now I can do as much work as any woman of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unequalled endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur
Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A
Remedy for All Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature graying, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is thin or turning gray, get a bottle of this remedy from your druggist today, and see what it will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

CHAPTER III. Mother and Child.

TRYING his wet hands on his trousers, Rowland lifted the tot and said tenderly, "Well, little one, you must run back to mamma. You're in bad company." The innocent eyes smiled into his own, and then—a foolish proceeding, which only bachelors are guilty of—he held her above the rail in jesting menace. "Shall I drop you over to the fishes, baby?" he asked, while his features softened to an unwonted smile. The child gave a little scream of fright, and at that instant a young woman appeared around the corner. She sprang toward Rowland like a tigress, snatched the child, stared at him for a moment with dilated eyes and then disappeared, leaving him limp and nerveless, breathing hard.

"It is her child," he groaned. "That was the mother look. She is married, married." He resumed his work with a face as near the color of the paint he was scrubbing as the tanned skin of a sailor may become.

Ten minutes later the captain in his office was listening to a complaint from a very excited man and woman. "And you say, colonel," said the captain, "that this man Rowland is an old enemy?"

"He is—or was once—a rejected admirer of Mrs. Selfridge. That is all I know of him, except that he has hinted at revenge. My wife is certain of what she saw, and I think the man should be confined."

"Why, captain," said the woman vehemently as she hugged her child, "you should have seen him! He was just about to drop Myra over as I seized her, and he had such a frightful leer on his face too. Oh, it was hideous! I shall not sleep another wink in this ship, I know."

"I beg you will give yourself no uneasiness, madam," said the captain gravely. "I have already learned something of his antecedents—that he is a disgraced and broken down naval officer. But as he has sailed three voyages with us I had credited his willingness to work before the mast to his craving for liquor, which he could not satisfy without money. However, as you think, he may be following you. Was he able to learn of your movements—that you were to take passage in this ship?"

"Why not?" exclaimed the husband. "He must know some of Mrs. Selfridge's friends."

"Yes, yes," she said eagerly. "I have heard him spoken of several times."

"Then it is clear," said the captain. "If you will agree, madam, to testify against him in the English courts I will immediately put him in irons for attempted murder."

"Oh, do, captain!" she exclaimed. "I cannot feel safe while he is at liberty. Of course I will testify."

"Whatever you do, captain," said the husband savagely, "rest assured that I shall put a bullet through his head if he meddles with me or mine again. Then you can put me in irons."

"I will see that he is attended to, colonel," replied the captain as he bowed them out of his office.

But as a murder charge is not always the best way to discredit a man and as the captain did not believe that the man who had defied him would murder a child and as the charge would be difficult to prove in any case and would cause him much trouble and annoyance, he did not order the arrest of John Rowland, but merely directed that for the time he should be kept at work by day in the 'tween deck out of sight of the passengers.

Rowland, surprised at his sudden transfer from the disagreeable scrubbing to a "soldier's job" of painting life buoys in the warm 'tween deck, was shrewd enough to know that he was being closely watched by the boatswain that morning, but not shrewd enough to affect any symptoms of intoxication or drugging, which might have satisfied his anxious superiors and brought him more whisky.

As a result of his brighter eyes and steadier voice—due to the curative sea air—when he turned out for the first dog watch on deck at 4 o'clock the captain and boatswain held an interview in the chart room, in which the former said: "Do not be alarmed. It is not poison. He is halfway into the horrors now, and this will merely bring them on. He will see snakes, ghosts, goblins, shipwrecks, fire and all sorts of things. It works in two or three hours. Just drop it into his drinking pot while the port forecastle is empty."

There was a fight in the port forecastle to which Rowland belonged—at supper time, which need not be described beyond mention of the fact that Rowland, who was not a participant, had his pot of tea dashed from his hand before he had taken three swallows. He procured a fresh supply and finished his supper, then, taking no part in his watch mates' open discussion of the fight and guarded discussion of collisions, rolled into his bunk and smoked until eight bells, when he turned out with the rest.

"Rowland," said the big boatswain as the watch mustered on deck, "take the starboard bridge lookout."

"It is not my trick, boats'n," said Rowland in surprise.

"Orders from the bridge. Get up there."

Rowland grumbled, as sailors may when aggrieved, and obeyed. The man he relieved reported his name and disappeared. The first officer sauntered down the bridge, uttered the official "Keep a good lookout" and returned to his post; then the silence and loneliness of a night watch at sea, intensified by the never ceasing hum of the engines and relieved only by the sounds of distant music and laughter from the theater, descended on the forward part of the ship, for the fresh westerly wind coming with the Titan made nearly a calm on her deck, and the dense fog, though overshone by a bright star specked sky, was so chilly that the last talkative passenger had fled to the light and life within.

When three bells—9:30—had sounded and Rowland had given in his turn the required call, "All's well!" the first officer left his post and approached him. "Rowland," he said as he drew near, "I hear you've walked the quarter deck."

"I cannot imagine how you learned it, sir," replied Rowland. "I am not in the habit of referring to it."

"You told the captain I suppose the curriculum is as complete at Annapolis as at the Royal Naval college. What do you think of Maury's theories of currents?"

"They seem plausible," said Rowland, unconsciously dropping the "sir," "but I think that in most particulars he has been proved wrong."

"Yes, I think so myself. Did you ever follow up another idea of his—that of locating the position of ice in a fog by the rate of decrease in temperature as approached?"

"Not to any definite result. But it seems to be only a matter of calculation and time to calculate. Cold is negative heat and can be treated like radiant energy, decreasing as the square of the distance."

The officer stood a moment looking ahead and humming a tune to himself, then, saying, "Yes; that's so," returned to his place.

"Must have a cast iron stomach," he muttered as he peered into the binnacle, "or else the boats'n dosed the wrong man's pot."

Rowland glanced after the retreating officer with a cynical smile. "I wonder," he said to himself, "why he comes down here talking navigation to a foremast hand. Why am I up here—out of my turn? Is this something in line with that bottle?" He resumed the short pacing back and forth on the end of the bridge, and the rather gloomy train of thought which the officer had interrupted.

"How long," he mused, "would his ambition and love of profession last him after he had met and won and lost the only woman on earth to him? Why is it that failure to hold the affections of one among the millions of women who live and love can outweigh every blessing in life and turn a man's nature into a hell to consume him? Who did she marry? Some one, probably a stranger, long after my banishment, who came to her possessed of a few qualities of mind or physique that pleased her, who did not need to love her—his chances were better without that—and he steps coolly and easily into my heaven. And they tell us that 'God doeth all things well' and that there is a heaven where all our unsatisfied wants are attended to—provided we have the necessary faith in it. That means, if it means anything, that after a lifetime of unrecognized allegiance, during which I win nothing but her fear and contempt, I may be rewarded by the love and companionship of her soul. Do I love her soul? Has her soul beauty of face and the figure and carriage of a Venus? Has her soul deep blue eyes and a sweet, musical voice? Has it wit and grace and charm? Has it a wealth of pity for suffering? These are the things I loved. I do not love her soul, if she has one. I do not want it. I want her—I need her." He stopped in his walk and leaned against the bridge railing, with eyes fixed on the fog ahead. He was speaking his thoughts aloud now, and the first officer drew within hearing, listened a moment and went back. "Working on him," he whispered to the third officer. Then he pushed the button which called the captain, blew a short blast of the steam whistle as a call to the boatswain and resumed his watch on the drugged lookout, while the third officer coned the ship.

The steam call to the boatswain is so common a sound on a steamship as to generally pass unnoticed. This call affected another besides the boatswain. A little nightgowned figure arose from an underberth in a saloon stateroom and, with wide open, staring eyes, groped its way to the deck unobserved by the watchman. The white, bare little feet felt no cold as they pattered the planks of the deserted promenade, and the little figure had reached the steerage entrance by the time the captain and boatswain had reached the bridge.

"And they talk," went on Rowland as the three watched and listened, "of the wonderful love and care of a merciful God, who controls all things, who has given me my defects and my capacity for loving and then placed Myra Gaunt in my way. Is there mercy to me in this? As part of a great evolutionary principle, which develops the race life at the expense of the individual, it might be consistent with the idea of a God—a first cause. But does the individual who perishes, because unfitted to survive, owe any love or gratitude to this God? He does not! On the supposition that he exists, I deny it! And on the complete lack of evidence that he does exist, I affirm to myself the integrity of cause and effect, which is enough to explain the universe and me. A merciful God—a kind, loving, just and merciful God"—He burst into a fit of incongruous laughter, which stopped short as he clapped his hands to his stomach and then to his head. "What ails me?" he gasped. "I feel as though I had swallowed hot coals—and my head—and my eyes—I can't see." The pain left him in a moment, and the laughter returned. "What's wrong with the starboard anchor? It's moving. It's changing. It's a—what? What on earth is it? On end—and the windlass—and the spare anchors—and the davits—all alive—all moving."

The sight he saw would have been horrid to a healthy mind, but it only moved this man to increased and uncontrollable merriment. The two rails below leading to the stem had arisen before him in a shadowy triangle, and within it were the deck fittings he had mentioned. The windlass had become a thing of horror, black and forbidding. The two end barrels were the bulging, lightless eyes of a nondescript monster, for which the cable chains had multiplied themselves into innumerable legs and tentacles. And this thing was crawling around within the triangle. The anchor davits were many headed serpents which danced on their tails, and the anchors themselves writhed and squirmed in the shape of immense hairy caterpillars, while faces appeared on the two white lantern towers, grinning and leering at him. With his hands on the bridge rail and tears streaming down his face, he laughed at the strange sight, but did not speak, and the three, who had quietly approached, drew back to await, while below on the promenade deck the little white figure, as though attracted by his laughter, turned into the stairway leading to the upper deck.

The phantasmagoria faded to a blank wall of gray fog, and Rowland found sanity to mutter, "They've drugged me," but in an instant he stood in the darkness of a garden, one that he had known. In the distance were the lights of a house, and close to him was a young girl, who turned from him and fled, even as he called to her.

By a supreme effort of will he brought himself back to the present, to the bridge he stood upon and to his duty. "Why must it haunt me through the years," he groaned, "drunk then, drunk since? She could have saved me, but she chose to damn me." He strove to pace up and down, but staggered and clung to the rail, while the three watchers approached again, and the little white figure below climbed the upper bridge steps.

"The survival of the fittest," he rambled as he stared into the fog—"cause and effect. It explains the universe—and me." He lifted his hand and spoke loudly, as though to some unseen familiar of the deep. "What will be the last effect? Where in the scheme of ultimate balance, under the law of the correlation of energy, will my wasted wealth of love be gathered and weighed and credited? What will balance it, and where will I be? Myra, Myra," he called, "do you know what you have lost? Do you know, in your goodness and purity and truth, of what you have done? Do you know?"

The fabric on which he stood was gone, and he seemed to be poised on nothing in a worldless universe of gray—alone. And in the vast, limitless emptiness there was no sound or life or change and in his heart neither fear nor wonder nor emotion of any kind save one, the unspeakable hunger of a love that had failed. Yet it seemed that he was not John Rowland, but some one or something else, for presently he saw himself far away, millions of billions of miles, as though on the outermost fringes of the void, and heard his own voice calling. Faintly, yet distinctly, filled with the concentrated despair of his life, came the call, "Myra, Myra!"

There was an answering call, and, looking for the second voice, he beheld her—the woman of his love—on the opposite edge of space, and her eyes held the tenderness and her voice held the pleading that he had known but in dreams. "Come back!" she called. "Come back to me!" But it seemed that the two could not understand, for again he heard the despairing cry, "Myra, Myra, where are you?" and again the answer, "Come back! Come!"

Then in the far distance to the right appeared a faint point of flame, which grew larger. It was approaching, and he dispassionately viewed it, and when he looked again for the two they were gone, and in their places were two clouds of nebula, which resolved into myriad points of sparkling light and color—whirling, encroaching, until they filled all space. And through them the larger light was coming—and growing larger—straight for him.

He heard a rushing sound and, looking for it, saw in the opposite direction a formless object as much darker than the gray of the void as the flame was brighter, and it, too, was growing larger and coming. And it seemed to him that this light and darkness were the good and evil of his life, and he watched to see which would reach him first, but felt no surprise or regret when he saw that the darkness was nearest. It came closer and closer until it brushed him on the side.

"What have we here, Rowland?" said a voice. Instantly the whirling points were blotted out, the universe of gray changed to the fog, the flame of light to the moon rising above it and the shapeless darkness to the form of the first officer. The little white figure, which had just darted past the three watchers, stood at his feet. As though warned by an inner subconsciousness of danger, it had come in its sleep for safety and care to its mother's old lover—the strong and the weak, the degraded and disgraced, but exalted; the persecuted, drugged and all but helpless John Rowland.

The Little White Figure Stood at His Feet.

With the readiness with which a man who dozes while standing will answer the question that awakens him, he said, though he stammered from the now waning effect of the drug, "Myra's child, sir; it's asleep." He picked up the nightgowned little girl, who screamed as she awakened, and folded his peajacket around the cold little body.

"Who is Myra?" asked the officer in a bullying tone, in which were also chagrin and disappointment. "You've been asleep yourself."

Before Rowland could reply a shout from the crow's nest split the air.

"Ice!" yelled the lookout. "Ice ahead! Iceberg! Right under the bows!" The first officer ran amidships, and the captain, who had remained there, sprang to the engine room telegraph, and this time the lever was turned. But in five seconds the bow of the Titan began to lift, and ahead and on either hand could be seen through the fog a field of ice, which arose in an incline to a hundred feet high in her track. The music in the theater ceased, and among the babel of shouts and cries and the deafening noise of steel scraping and crashing over ice Rowland heard the agonized voice of a woman crying from the bridge steps: "Myra, Myra, where are you? Come back!"
